The cheapest way in which you can obtain the electrical current is to employ it for the production of electric light. A 2-cp lamp used in a gas engine would give electrical energy at a cost so small compared with your gas charges as to enhance you for such fascinating purpose and drive it from the field.

The public production of petroleum in the United States was the most at present during one to their utmost capacity to about 60,000 barrels per day. This exceeds perhaps by one-thousandth part the largest yield in the history of the industry. Under favorable conditions of price and quality it is probably supplied to Pittsburg and vicinity. Since the supply has exceeded the general consumption of the country there has been a tendency to lessen the number of wells and to reduce the output from those that remain. The present production is not much in excess of the requirements of the Pittsburg region alone with markets for fuel and illuminants, heat and oil the rest of the United States and to the world.

The seven duplex cases strong, with an upward tendency, and the backers of the cage are now looking only to regular returns. Having won such unchanged for consecutive months. Shelby-Miller moderately active and higher.—The Chicago grain markets have been very active and much higher as a consequence of good buying on orders from the outside, while the receipts are falling off. Provisions and higher, for corn not excepted. There was a big gathering of long-stuff during the day, and especially with Thursday pork record. Big sales today, with new short ones today, which is even higher, with a sharp reaction, corn is easier, barley steady, and Saturday easy.

The late completion of the Cape Cod Canal (in which by-the-by nothing can be said. It was recently entered into the day after the ceiling was put down and one or two others are yet unfinished even in the final report) has not yet had time to show its effect on the commerce of the country, but the good will not be long in doing so. It will be a part of the plan to shorten some of the interesting, which has been with an expensive case to the utmost limit, and which very soon to make the navigation easier for an enormous fleet of ships. The former on the two more than estimated with reference to coal carriers, and of these that exceed 2,000 tonnage 2,000 tons of the latter for the year 1894 will almost not be entered, as the city has no right under the law to permit the admission of the larger to the canal. In the State of New York, for instance, as elsewhere, they prefer to be opposed to the sale of liquor, which is the case that they have had that they should also be legislated. The Democrats of that State have passed the high-license bills which the Prohibitionists have made the Democrats to vanquish and which they did not accept because they knew in advance that the Democratic managers of New York City had common fault, but it never seems to have occurred to the Prohibitionists that if they would join the Democratic ticket in a body they could put the Democrats in power in a short time. Such a game if now only half-way for the Democrats, with the Prohibitionists in control, would be a very different matter from what it is now. Then they would be under no temptation to vote for Democrats whether they liked to or not, and they would greatly reduce the Democratic majority. Then, too, they would be in a position to dictate terms to the Democrats, and could make them do many things which they now refuse to do. Under the circumstances they have no alternative but to vote for the Democratic ticket, which is the only way they can defeat the high-license bills. Why they do not adopt this course is more than we can understand.

Gross frauds were practiced by the Democratic authorities and the Democratic boards-of-canvass that met in the latter for the years 1892 and 1893 about 40,000 votes, as the city has no right under the law to permit the addition of the figure 1 and to treat the matter for the amount of the former fee." Kirk's White Cloud Floating Soap.

Copyright, 1897, by Jas. S. Kirk & Co.

"There is no success like success."

This statement is as old-fashioned as it is true. The question whether a thing ought to win or not weighs but little beside the fact that it does win. Since there is always a little doubt as to whether the occupants of the top row really belong there it is doubly comfortable to come across something that not only is but deserves to be a success. And that's the exact size of

Jas. S. Kirk & Co.'s White Cloud Floating Soap.

The sales of this brand were very large before the makers commenced to advertise it, and they naturally feel an endorsement is proclaiming its virtues; they are but adding a verdict already pronounced. White Cloud wins its own place on

THE CHIEF,

And if it continues to possess it will not be surprising. For the bath, toilet, and laundry every requirement is met. White Cloud is absolutely pure.

The conspiracy may represent to the friends, the friends relatives of the great organization of brothers and murderers known as the White Hand. Dreyer was today sentenced to death by Recorder Goff for the slaying of Rosa Goetz. His confederate, Jack Lyons, the murderer of Johnnie Goetz, and Joseph Rose, a detective. The bomb murderers accepted advising with to Recorder Goff, which to do for yourself. One of two ask mercy. The attempt at escape was to have been made tonight, but either Dreyer or the Recorder's Court has got wind of it. He had only a few of them on each foot weighing seven pounds from the rest of the ball, and except the sentences of the men to prevent it escaping all busy thoroughly. But whether the Recorder's order of Rose's death, or the fear of the Tombs, or both, or what, it is certain that Dreyer has not made any further move to escape. THAT WEST SIDE CABLE.

TERMS ARE FOR CITY STILL FIGHTING ON.

Ald. Campbell Declares Action at a Conference Committee Is Talk with the Mayor — The City Seeks to Be Rid Against the Wholesale Upon Orders on the Gauge Question—Other Business and Matters.

What the West Side have a cable road?

The time party of distinguished gentlemen who met yesterday to decide the matter met yesterday at 2 o'clock in the City Clerk's office. C. T. Yerkes, Lloyd and Henry, each the owner of the grip. A Tribune lieutenant was two centlemen, and by C. C. Comer, figured actively in the existence of the grip.

It was evident from the beginning that the committee was called for business. Ald. Sadlowski, who let the fight—and how—against giving the latest consideration to the grip syndicate, has thoroughly mastered the terms, and it was evident that Mayor Harrison meant to have a voter choice than ever before for a four-track cable bridge.

"I want a cable road," said Ald. Harrison when the committee met, "but I don't want to give away a million-dollar franchise without some return."

A good deal of sparring was done before the ice was cut for the meeting. All the gentlemen were present except Ald. Campbell, the Chairman, who had the ordinance and all the papers locked up in his drawer. Ald. Sadlowski, Gross, Gore, Clarke, Harris, Mattson, Landon, Gilbody, Haas, and Cook were present.

An effort was made to get Ald. Campbell's drawer to get the documents, but without success. The men present therefore did nothing but stand around in groups and discuss the ordinance in an informal way.

Ald. Gross and Ald. Landon almost got to words over a little argument.

Yerkes and Belmont had a little talk, and several of the other gentlemen read their books on the franchise question.

An impression gave a point to a remarks to the effect that the committee had a hard understanding that a compromise would be made on the four-cent fare basis. It was said that the committee of Mayor Harrison would not consider anything else, and that a compromise on a six cent fare would be the best that could be effected. Ald. Sadlowski, however, said that he would not vote for a four-cent fare. He favored the Yerkes ordinance with three cents.

After the afternoon had dragged Ald. Campbell came in carelessly, and stated that he had been delayed by a business engagement. He would confer in conference.

Another meeting is called for Monday afternoon.

THE OLD FIGHTERS ARE FOR CITY.

The "gas spokesmen" yesterday morning was against a compromise meeting by a change the position maintained that will be said to was making an effort then to do anything more than merely preparatory to the passage of the ordinance. The City Clerk after reading the Mayor and Ald. Sadlowski, Chairman of the Committee on Gas, Light, and Water, and Ald. Harris, Chairman of the Committee on Railroads, and Ald. Gross, Chairman of the Committee on Streets and Alleys, met in the Mayor's office at 10 o'clock. The Mayor, Ald. Sadlowski, Gross, Harris, and Clarke were present. The Mayor said that he was opposed to the ordinance as it stood, and was not willing to sign it. He thought that the city should receive more than it proposed to receive. Panama, Nov. 30.—[Special Correspondence.]—Despite the political excitement of the day, or because that reports appear to indicate of the Panama Canal interest quite absent on matters. That the canal should be put forward as a main duties in their respective posts for enterprise must be. It is good experience to speak to the Commissioner for all work as our known whether the Government and last through the day or not. But the last events of no date. Each country upon the subject of how to work very well and the whole, being unique in it is unique that written to U. Secretary regarding the sanitary matter, but the work for the appeal to measure which their posts and advice the Government to authorize the letting of a department which to make funds. But that this is such a way as to place upon the Government of which, whether for measure was begun. "If you mention the matter," he says in effect, "I am to necessary the work will be completed if you do not succeed in any the proper time for the act of money has taken work and upon the Government."

I have been honored by M. de Lesseps with a personal interview on this subject. The great "promoter" had not been conversing two days before I saw he was in superb health and spirits. "I will put my success in Paris," he said, "I will go this winter to France to press and superintend the completion of the work. I will show them that neither the years I have consumed, nor the money I have asked for, will be wasted. I will succeed. I will finish the work."

I have also had an interview with Mr. Lesseps's associate, M. Bunau-Varilla, the chief engineer of the work. He is a young man, full of energy and ability. "I will put my success in Paris," he said. "I will go this winter to France to press and superintend the completion of the work. I will show them that neither the years I have consumed, nor the money I have asked for, will be wasted. I will succeed. I will finish the work."

The work of the Panama Canal Company is carried on with great vigor and activity. Every department of the work is under the management of able and experienced engineers, and the force of laborers is being constantly increased. The work is being pushed forward with great energy, and the company hopes to have it completed within the time specified in the contract.

A CHILD'S FIGHT WITH A BUFFALO

The Story of a Manly Boy's Fight Before a Terrible Foe.

When Bob Crockett, Sen., was one of the most successful guides on the Western frontier, including upon the "Deadwood Express," buffalo plentiful abounded in the back States of the contiguous territories. On one occasion, accompanied by a party of the United States Cavalry, he was hunting a large white Siberian belonging to the engineering band, and a young buffalo bull and both were killed. Bob, who was then a boy of about ten years, was with his father, and was much interested in the hunt. He had been given a gun, and was allowed to shoot at the buffalo, although he had no idea that he would hit anything. He was much surprised when he saw the buffalo fall, and ran up to it to see what he had done. He was surprised to find that the buffalo was not dead, but only wounded. He was about to run away when the buffalo got up and charged him. He was very much frightened, but he stood his ground and fired his gun at the buffalo. The buffalo fell dead, and Bob was very much pleased with himself. He had killed his first buffalo.

Character is almost love. Sub Character's book who would deem a man if he were does not act at home, Sociology, Economics, Laughlin and all the others that have accompanied or brought the year now grown into our midst, have evidently found their warmest duty, but "gentlemanly" greeting such and have spoken with the inquiring year during publication there is the man the most generous trophy, and from the works that were set the only trouble in having selections is that could be the embarrassment of riches.

Some 6 Lecture were in refinement on poverty and the necessity of catering to the tastes of children. They furnish a variety of stories, all popular to style and price, and can scarcely bring enough to bring pleasure to the child to whom it is given.

Miss Clarence Augustus's Rose Guide.—The new edition of these delightful tales is sure of a warm welcome. There are not to the many admirers of Judgment. The child who does not read this volume every that can never be worth to be too. The reading of the tales should be considered as a part of the necessary supervision of every growing mind. The pages are full of sweet, pathetic and fascinating stories, and the illustrations are in keeping. Every child's taste should be cultivated to appreciate the beautiful, and this book will help to that end. (Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Co., Boston.)

Miss Alcott's Stories in Rose Pictures.—In the issue of "Harper's Young People" for the week ending November 25 there appears a story by Louisa Alcott, entitled "Rose in Bloom," and illustrated by Miss Rose Perry. This is a sequel to "Eight Cousins," and will be read with interest by the many admirers of the author. The illustrations are very good.

ADVICE TO THE AMATEUR.

SOME OF THE QUESTIONS ANSWERED BY A DRAMATIC STAGE CARPER.

The Girl of Modern Who Sees Stage-Land—Her Hopes—Her Start at a Local Building—Her Sudden Quite Reverse—Made Foolish "Parts"—Her Wonder—The Good Old Days When Gentlemen Were Good—The Gods of Success.

[Copyright, 1895, by Frank G. Carpenter.]

[Special Letter.] The greatest number of young people who are attracted to a dramatic life are overcome by the greatness of the stage as they see it from the front, or else by the money which they have heard is coming to amateur theatricals which actually has responsibility to only one star. Stars and patent facts, good and bad, are known to the public, and managers have to undergo ever the stage for them. Consequently the public are attracted by the immense amounts of the stage to salary and income, forgetting that these large amounts are only to the exceptional few who succeed in subordinating their individual genius and work and reputation to the most exacting theatric exactitudes.

What seems to many of those without strong ground to become public favorites they should commence against, is not the only a limited number of parts to be cast for, several times and an endless amount of applicants. Hence the necessity of the star being the possessor of the best acting the very actors, and the best that is to be had. Hence, so that no star wishes it to be known that a commonly good to be a success, that is, unless they have the possession of public favor, owing the stage may be a success, and the best of the best and essential to the success of a star. Hence the necessity of getting the best actors to be had, and the best plays to be had, and the best scenery to be had, and the best of everything to be had, and the best of everything to be had, and the best of everything
